Ina recovers Romance

“My partner and I suddenly became distant emotionally from one another. I got irritated at every turn, felt empty and disconnected. My partner and I were separated when I went to U.S.A. Then we seemed to be closer, we communicated a lot, made sure to open our feelings up, and were genuinely happy. After we got together again, I rarely felt that "flow" between us...”

“I approached IRES for help and received simple instructions on how could restore freshness and affection by a change of attitude. I applied IRES’s advice sincerely. In the following 3 weeks I became more loving and accepting. Our communication and emotional connection have improved dramatically. IRES advice has also shown me how I can become a happier person in my own right. I also find wherever I go, people have become more supportive. I feel really great!”

Joy's partner turns Positive

“ My partner was creatively negative. He was always speaking things that powerfully annoyed me and made every situation far worse than it otherwise would have been”

“I approached JRES with the hope of removing this streak of morbidity in him. I followed the suggestion of not reacting to any negative remark that he made. It meant not worrying that such negative words will come true and not trying to reason with or change him. When I followed this advice, I found to my surprise that my partner's negative behavior dramatically diminished and he even began acting in the very opposite manner. The method suggested by JRES is showing amazing results that have stood even the test of global recession. The prevalent job loss, pay cuts, and the overall economic gloom have not cast a shadow on my partner's speech, he's begun to speak a new, positive language.”

Guru's partner gets Organized

"I had been complaining for years about my partner's lack of organization. I became really alarmed when I learned that she was paying exorbitantly high interest rates on for late payment on her credit cards, but my pleas for her to change were fruitless. She was so unorganized that she did not even know when each of her card payments was due."

"I consulted JRES and started to follow JRES' strategies for improving harmony, including not complaining, not trying to change my partner, not bullying and not reacting. My initial efforts went well. Without any further prodding on my part, last week my partner called her bank and worked out an agreement to simplify and regularize her credit card payments. Afterwards I realized that my decision to stop complaining and trying to change her had prompted her to do something I had been unsuccessfully urging her to do for months."
